Dear Mr. Tourignay:

I would like to share with you the favorable feedback I have received on the documentary produced by Chris Brown on our department. I have received phone calls from the editor of the Canadian Nurse, from a representative of the Canadian Council on Children and Youth and received favorable comments from many parents and professionals. Most of the comments have been regarding the educational value of the program in terms of pointing out children's needs in hospital, ways to meet these needs, and the information re services provided at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

I must admit that I have always had a certain reluctance to intrude upon children and parents with camera men, consent forms, and other interruptions inherent in the filming process. However, Chris Brown made the filming of this documentary a pleasant experience. His sensitivity and respect for the children, their families, and the staff always put the patient before the obtaining of film footage, and as a result not only did he "fit in" like a member of our staff but he caught the essence of the programs.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Denise Alcock
